Caring for your wound

If you have your wound closed with stitches, Steristrips or staples, it is important to keep the wound and dressing clean and dry. Be careful not to scratch your wound. Avoid bathing or showering the affected area for 5 days to allow the wound to start to heal. Getting Steristrips wet may cause your wound to re-open.

If you have your wound closed with medical glue, you should not get your wound wet for at least one hour after the glue is applied. Following that period it is ok to wash your wound.

For head wounds which have been closed with medical glue, you may wash your hair when you get home as long as this is at least one hour after the glue is applied. Pat/dab dry immediately after washing.

- DO NOT soak the wound area.
- DO NOT go swimming.
- DO NOT pick the wound.

Should the dressing become dirty or wet then it will need replacing by your practice nurse at your GP surgery. Do not cover the dressing or wound with anything waterproof as this can make the wound soggy and it can increase the chance of infection.

If your wound is closed with staples, you can wash the staples and surrounding area but please take special care to thoroughly dry the area after.

Signs of infection

Please contact your GP should any of the following symptoms develop:

- Redness
- Swelling
- Heat around the wound
- An increase in pain
- Any wound discharge / pus
- Bleeding from the wound
- Fever

Once the wound closure method has been removed, gently massage the area with moisturising cream to encourage good wound healing. Always protect the scar with sunblock.

If anytime the wound comes apart or you are worried by the wound, please contact your GP surgery or return to the Emergency Department.

PALS

The Patient Advice and Liaison Service (PALS) ensures that the NHS listens to patients, relatives, carers and friends, answers questions and resolves concerns as quickly as possible. If you have a query or concern call 01271 314090 or email rduh.pals-northern@nhs.net. You can also visit the PALS and Information Centre in person at North Devon District Hospital, Barnstaple.
